

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. Newton McVeigh, who has been absent in the North all summer, has returned to Richmond, and is now at her home, 1011 Park Avenue, for the winter season. Mrs. McVeigh has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Scott, at her handsome country estate, "White Stone," on Long Island, and also spent some time in Connecticut. Mrs. Scott and Mrs. McVeigh's son, Charles McVeigh, who returned to Virginia last week for a short stay, are now in New York.

Mrs. Margaret R. Gordon was the guest of Mrs. McVeigh for several weeks, and also visited "White Stone" before returning to her home.

The Society of Colonial Dames of America in the State of Virginia has issued invitations for a luncheon, which is to be given at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of October 21, at the Country Club of Virginia. The affair is in celebration of the twenty-first birthday of the Dames in this State, and will be one of the handsomest and most important of the early autumn season in Richmond.

A pretty wedding was celebrated Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Gordon, near Clarksville, when Miss Gertrude Estelle Gordon became the bride of William B. Pittard, of Oxford, N. C. The parlor was artistically decorated in fall flowers, lighted candles and palms. Mrs. Gordon sang "Until the End of Time," just before the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. H. T. Williams. Luncheon was served immediately after the ceremony. The bride and groom left at once for a Northern wedding trip. They will be at home after October 10 in Oxford, N. C.

Meeting This Morning.
The board of managers of the Richmond Exchange for Women's Work will meet to-day at noon at the exchange, and all members of the board are urged to be present, as business of importance is to be transacted at this meeting. Attention of members is called to the change of hour, from 10 o'clock to noon.

Wedding.
The marriage of Miss Katharine Ward Burton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Burton, to Bernard Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard I. Manning, of Sumter, S. C., took place at 7:30 o'clock last evening at St. Michael and All Angels' Protestant Episcopal Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles E. Rector, of the church, assisted by Rev. Alfred B. Berkeley, of Philadelphia, a brother-in-law of the groom. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin.

Dunlop Flour

IT'S MADE IN RICHMOND

The Dunlop Mills, Richmond, Va.

Our Rug Department

is showing a beautiful collection of American and Oriental Rugs in sizes for halls, living-rooms and dining-rooms.

SYDNOR & HUNDLEY

J.B. Mosby & Co.

"Just for Friday Specials To-day"

SCHOOL SHOES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS $1.50 to $3.00. Every Pair Guaranteed.

Hofheimer's

Third and Broad.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE New Method Gas Ranges — AT PETTIT & CO.'S?

HAMMOND

"Flowers of Guaranteed Freshness." Tel. Madison 630.

Shades to Order at Ryan-Smith's. The Low Profit Policy Store.

THE REINACH CO., Inc.

107 E. BROAD STREET. MILLINERY—Women's and Misses' Outer Apparel.

DETROIT GAS RANGES, ALASKA REFRIGERATORS, OLD HICKORY STOVE, SOLD ONLY BY

JURGENS

201 East Broad. Wanted, a Saleslady as assistant in the Corset and Muslin Underwear Sections. Apply to A. G. Hoover.

Hopkins Furniture Co.

7 West Broad St. Cash or Credit

The Silk Hosiery Store

In selecting Hosiery, it is not always best to look for the cheapest, but to look for Quality, which you will find in all McCullum made Hosiery, who also are distinguished for the novelties.

McCullum's Pure Silk Hose, with deep lisse gather top, reinforced heel and toe, in all colors $1.00

McCullum's Pure Silk Hose, of three-ply silk, with lisse line, high spliced heel and toe, wide gather top, in all shades $1.50

McCullum's Pure Silk Hose, embroidered in self, set with rhinestones, in very dainty patterns, white and black only $2.98

McCullum's Accordion Hose, in black and white, full length heel and toe reinforced and spliced high; a very attractive hose, giving a touch of style to . . . $5.00 your new fall suit . . . $5.00

Kaufmann & Co.

with a court train, trimmed with duchess lace. Her tulle veil fell from a cap of duchess lace, and she carried a presentation bouquet of white orchids and carnations, falling to the waist line. She carried a sunburst bouquet of yellow roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Potts, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., wore yellow champagne with a tulle veil, arranged in cap fashion, falling to the waist line. She carried a sunburst bouquet of yellow roses.

The bridesmaids—Miss Mary Morris Mason, of Charlottesville, Va.; Miss Edith Galt, of Kingman, of Sumter, S. C.; a cousin of the bride, Miss Anne Mason Banks, of this city, and Miss Rachel Harding, of Howard County, Md.—wore gowns of white crepe de chine, with yellow tulle and cap veils, and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. The ushers were Douglas McKay, of Columbia, S. C.; Wardlaw Smith, of Spartanburg, S. C.; Russell Carr, of Winchester; David Edward Finley, Jr., of Washington, and Henry B. Thomas, Jr., and Mr. Walter Baker White, of Baltimore.

The bride and groom followed at the home of the bride, 126 West Twenty-second Street, for the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

Mr. Manning and his bride left later in the evening for a Southern wedding journey, and will make their home in Sumter, S. C., where the groom is prominent in business and social circles. The bride is of equally important lineage, being descended from the famous Randolph and Throckmorton families of Virginia.

Meeting This Afternoon.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Grace Street Baptist Church will meet to-day at 4 o'clock for the October meeting. The meeting will be addressed by Mrs. L. M. Duval, a missionary to Africa, and other matters of interest will complete the program for the afternoon. A full attendance is desired.

Tea for Kindergarten.

The Woman's Club of Ginter Park will give a benefit tea this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock for the Ginter Park Kindergarten, and the public is cordially invited to attend. The tea will be held at the kindergarten rooms, 608 Noble Avenue, Ginter Park, and decorations will be in shades of light and bright autumn flowers. An interesting musical program has been arranged and light refreshments will be served. Among the hostesses for the affair are Mrs. H. C. Galtlick, Mrs. J. Howard Suttin, Mrs. A. F. Ryland, Mrs. Charles D. Taylor, Jr., Mrs. John Garland Pollard, Mrs. Victor Shelburne, Mrs. J. B. Moore, Jr., Mrs. Landon Crutchfield, Mrs. J. E. Cox, Mrs. A. M. Robertson, and Miss Susie McCarthy, married in Philadelphia.

Thomas S. Mace, of Albemarle County, and Miss Elsie Hand (Hinton), of 211 West Grace Street, were married in Philadelphia on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harris, the bride's sister.

In and Out of Town.
Miss Helen and Dorothy Christian are returning this week, after a visit to Canada and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Jones are now at the Jefferson, awaiting the completion of their new home on West Avenue.

Mrs. John S. Munce is in Lexington, where she is visiting her sons, Marshall and George Munce, who are cadets at V. M. I.

Miss Birdie Baugh, who has been quite sick at her home in Powhatan for six weeks, is now at the Johnston-Willis Hospital here.

Miss Irma Jeffers, of Chase City, is the guest of Miss Nora Randolph, on Grove Avenue.

Mrs. John D. Potts and Miss Nell Potts have returned to their apartment on Park Avenue, after spending the summer at the White Sulphur.

Mrs. R. D. Tucker, of Powhatan, regent of the Powhatan Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. D. Wingfield, at 407 West Franklin Street.

Mrs. Warner Moore has gone to Baltimore, where she is the guest of relatives for this week.

Mrs. William Todd Robins left yesterday for Cobham, where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Thomas C. Gordon.

Robert W. Daniel, who sailed recently on the steamship Imperator for England, is now in London for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hart, of Portsmouth, are visiting Rev. and Mrs. Zebulon Farland, at their home in this city.

Mrs. Frank Bletcher, of Canada, spent several days in Richmond this week, on route for her home, after a visit to friends in Powhatan.

Mrs. B. S. Herndon, of Portsmouth, is a guest of friends in this city for a short stay.

Mrs. Frederick S. Valentine and Miss Rosalie Valentine have returned to the city, after spending some time in Baltimore.

Mrs. Frank Anthony Waite, of Norfolk, is visiting relatives in Richmond this week.

Mrs. E. L. Bemiss has gone to Baltimore.

more, where she will be the guest of friends for a short stay.

Mrs. C. W. Hendley and Miss Josephine Hendley, of Jacksonville, Fla., are spending several days with friends in this city.

Mrs. E. H. O'Brien and Mrs. J. E. Alexander, of Alexandria, are the guests of friends in Richmond this week.

Miss Margaret Wadley has returned to Roanoke, after attending the Masonic wedding in Charlottesville Wednesday.

Mrs. Robert Neal, of Staunton, is visiting in Washington for several weeks, before coming to Richmond.

William Robertson, of this city, has been the recent guest of friends in Newport News for a few days.

Scott—Reynolds.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Charlottesville, Va., October 2.—James Rittenhouse Scott, of New York City, and Miss Ruth Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Landon Reynolds, of St. Albans, Vt., were married this afternoon at "Sunny Fields," the country home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Austin, near Monticello, the Rev. Harry B. Lee, D. D., rector of Christ Episcopal Church, performing the ceremony. The bride approached the improvised altar with her father. She was preceded by Miss Marion Gilmore as maid of honor, and her nephews, Masters George and Edward Austin, as pages. J. Stewart Owens, of New York City, was best man. A reception followed the wedding, after which the young couple left for their honeymoon, which will include a visit to the groom's mother, Mrs. James Rittenhouse Scott, Sr., whose ill health prevented her coming South for the wedding.

Among the out-of-town guests in the house party entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Austin were the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy L. Reynolds, of St. Albans, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Galt, of Kingman, of Sumter, S. C.; a cousin of the bride, Miss Anne Mason Banks, of this city, and Miss Rachel Harding, of Howard County, Md.—wore gowns of white crepe de chine, with yellow tulle and cap veils, and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. The ushers were Douglas McKay, of Columbia, S. C.; Wardlaw Smith, of Spartanburg, S. C.; Russell Carr, of Winchester; David Edward Finley, Jr., of Washington, and Henry B. Thomas, Jr., and Mr. Walter Baker White, of Baltimore.

The bride and groom followed at the home of the bride, 126 West Twenty-second Street, for the immediate families and a few intimate friends. Mr. Manning and his bride left later in the evening for a Southern wedding journey, and will make their home in Sumter, S. C., where the groom is prominent in business and social circles. The bride is of equally important lineage, being descended from the famous Randolph and Throckmorton families of Virginia.

Meeting This Afternoon.
The Woman's Missionary Society of Grace Street Baptist Church will meet to-day at 4 o'clock for the October meeting. The meeting will be addressed by Mrs. L. M. Duval, a missionary to Africa, and other matters of interest will complete the program for the afternoon. A full attendance is desired.

Tea for Kindergarten.

The Woman's Club of Ginter Park will give a benefit tea this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock for the Ginter Park Kindergarten, and the public is cordially invited to attend. The tea will be held at the kindergarten rooms, 608 Noble Avenue, Ginter Park, and decorations will be in shades of light and bright autumn flowers. An interesting musical program has been arranged and light refreshments will be served. Among the hostesses for the affair are Mrs. H. C. Galtlick, Mrs. J. Howard Suttin, Mrs. A. F. Ryland, Mrs. Charles D. Taylor, Jr., Mrs. John Garland Pollard, Mrs. Victor Shelburne, Mrs. J. B. Moore, Jr., Mrs. Landon Crutchfield, Mrs. J. E. Cox, Mrs. A. M. Robertson, and Miss Susie McCarthy, married in Philadelphia.

Thomas S. Mace, of Albemarle County, and Miss Elsie Hand (Hinton), of 211 West Grace Street, were married in Philadelphia on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harris, the bride's sister.

In and Out of Town.
Miss Helen and Dorothy Christian are returning this week, after a visit to Canada and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Jones are now at the Jefferson, awaiting the completion of their new home on West Avenue.

Mrs. John S. Munce is in Lexington, where she is visiting her sons, Marshall and George Munce, who are cadets at V. M. I.

Miss Birdie Baugh, who has been quite sick at her home in Powhatan for six weeks, is now at the Johnston-Willis Hospital here.

Miss Irma Jeffers, of Chase City, is the guest of Miss Nora Randolph, on Grove Avenue.

Mrs. John D. Potts and Miss Nell Potts have returned to their apartment on Park Avenue, after spending the summer at the White Sulphur.

Mrs. R. D. Tucker, of Powhatan, regent of the Powhatan Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. D. Wingfield, at 407 West Franklin Street.

Mrs. Warner Moore has gone to Baltimore, where she is the guest of relatives for this week.

Mrs. William Todd Robins left yesterday for Cobham, where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Thomas C. Gordon.

Robert W. Daniel, who sailed recently on the steamship Imperator for England, is now in London for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hart, of Portsmouth, are visiting Rev. and Mrs. Zebulon Farland, at their home in this city.

Mrs. Frank Bletcher, of Canada, spent several days in Richmond this week, on route for her home, after a visit to friends in Powhatan.

Mrs. B. S. Herndon, of Portsmouth, is a guest of friends in this city for a short stay.

Mrs. Frederick S. Valentine and Miss Rosalie Valentine have returned to the city, after spending some time in Baltimore.

Mrs. Frank Anthony Waite, of Norfolk, is visiting relatives in Richmond this week.

Mrs. E. L. Bemiss has gone to Baltimore.

"The House That Cordial Invitation"

Is extended the public to visit our store!

We have recently renovated our building, increasing considerably the floor space, and have added several new soundproof rooms, where will be found every comfort for rest and retirement, writing materials, etc., for your personal use FREE.

Richmond

Musical

The Corley Company

EXTENSION COURSE FOR THIS SESSION

Subjects Announced for Lectures by Professors of University.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Charlottesville, Va., October 2.—Professor W. H. Heck, who is directing the University of Virginia extension lectures, announces the following subjects for the session 1913-14 as follows:

Albert Balz, adjunct professor of philosophy, "The Mind of the Crowd."
J. C. Bardin, adjunct professor of Spanish and Portuguese, "South America."

R. M. Bird, professor of chemistry, "The Romance of Steel."
R. H. Dabney, professor of history, "The Influence of the Past Upon the Present."

S. J. Davis, professor of the practice of medicine and pediatrics, "Alcohol and the Human Body."
A. M. Doble, professor of law, "Law and Language."

Graham Edgar, associate professor of chemistry, "The Industrial Triumphs of Modern Chemistry."
W. H. Faulkner, professor of German languages, "German University Student Life."

Thomas Fitzhugh, professor of Latin, "Ancient Art" (stereoscopic views).
J. C. Filippi, professor of clinical medicine, "Home Medication."

W. M. Forrest, professor of biblical history and literature, "The Literary Influence of the English Bible."
J. S. Grasty, associate professor of economic geology, "Natural Wonders of Virginia."

W. L. Heck, professor of education, "Hereditary Education."
W. M. Humley, adjunct professor of political science, "Education for Citizenship."

H. E. Jordan, professor of histology and embryology, "The Effect of War Upon the Race."
W. A. Kerner, associate professor of biology, (a) "Animal Adaptations," or (b) "The Evolution of Man."

A. Lambeth, professor of hygiene, "How to Know the Trees."
Albert Lefevre, professor of philosophy, "Some Common Errors in Thinking."

C. G. Naphis, professor of secondary education, (a) "The High School as a Social Institution," or (b) "Thomas Jefferson as Revealed by His Letters."
H. Marshall, professor of pathology, "The Health Problems of a Community."

S. A. Mitchell, professor of astronomy, "Wonders of the Heavens."
T. Myers, adjunct professor of English literature, "The Life of a Book."

T. W. Page, professor of economics, "What is an American?"
D. H. Ramsey, Stokes Fellow, "The Architecture of the University of Virginia" (stereoscopic views).

C. A. Smith, professor of English, "The Ministry of Poetry."
W. M. Thornton, professor of applied mechanics, "Good Roads."

R. H. Webb, professor of Greek, "The Life of the Ancient Greeks."

WANT ALL BACK PICTURES FREE?—ACT BY TO-MORROW!

For To-Morrow That Fatal Picture No. 70 Will Appear in the Bookkeepers' Contest.

Two points:

1. You can get the first seventy pictures free with a Catalogue and an Answer Book.

2. The picture No. 70 will appear to-morrow.

In other words, if you want to secure all the back pictures free, you must act by to-morrow, for only for two days more—today and to-morrow—will the first seventy pictures constitute all the back pictures!

Eight days from now, for instance, the day when the seventy-seventh and last picture will appear, you will be able to get the first seventy pictures free with the Catalogue and Answer Book, but eight days from now the first seventy pictures will not constitute all the back pictures!

But if you get the pictures by to-morrow free, you will have all the pictures that have appeared thus far, and the last seven pictures you will get free from the paper each day.

Act quickly. If you let things slide, as you usually do, you will wake up to discover that the seventy-third or the seventy-fifth, or the seventy-seventh picture is appearing, and you will wait!

"I wish I had secured the first seventy pictures free with the Catalogue and Answer Book at the time the first seventy pictures constituted all the back pictures!"

This is the way to get the first seventy pictures free, and to take your place in the contest with just as much chance of winning that first award as any one has!

Get the first thirty-five pictures free with the Catalogue. This is a list of 5,000 book titles, and from it was selected the seventy-seventh title that the seventy-seventh contest picture was drawn to represent. In other words, all the seventy-seventh correct titles in the Catalogue. With each Catalogue go seven certificates, which are re-

GLORIOUS OLD RUIN GLARINGLY RESTORED

Visitors to Sacred Isle of Iona Will Be Shocked by Vandalistic Work.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENAY.

VISITORS to the sacred Isle of Iona, possibly of every sense of art, or of reverence for the historic past, will be profoundly shocked by the vandalistic restoration of the glorious old ruin of the Cathedral of Iona, the cradle of Christianity of Scotland. It has not only been roofed, but also fitted up with Neo-Gothic brasswork, woodwork, as well as other twentieth century furnishings, from the church furniture emporiums, and which offend the eye, not only by their aggressively modern Philistinism, but also by their glaring anachronism.

That Scots should have desired to use the old sanctuary of what was the Celtic counterpart of England's Canterbury Cathedral and Westminster Abbey is comprehensible. But it passes the imagination how they could have had so little sense of propriety as to convert it into what looks like a brand-new Presbyterian church—utterly out of place among its wonderful environment.

When the Lord Leven and Melville left $250,000 for the restoration of Holyrood Chapel at Edinburgh, with the idea of its being used once more as chapel of the ancient royal Order of the Thistle, Edward VII. and his chief advisers declined to accept the legacy, on the ground that any attempt at restoration would impair the picturesque beauty of the exquisite ruins, and that to repair them would constitute an act of unpardonable vandalism. The sovereign's attitude in the matter met with universal approval, both at home and abroad.

That the ruins of the Cathedral of Iona, which means so infinitely more to every son of Scotland than Holyrood Chapel, should have thus been permitted to become the prey of the vandalistic restorer, is simply inconceivable.

It is only fair to state that the present Duke of Argyll is not so culpable as he is credited for this crime against art and archeology. It is necessary to mention this, since Iona is a few years ago belonged to the Dukes of Argyll. The late duke, however, greatly to the indignation of his subjects, had decided to convert the remains on the Island of Iona to the trustees of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland, of which he was a shining light, his main object being to prevent them from falling into the hands of the Church of England or of the Church of Rome.

For the present duke has, since his marriage to Princess Louise, become a member of the Anglican Church, while his nephew and heir, Niall Campbell, a tall and extremely good-looking young fellow, is either on the very brink of conversion to Roman Catholicism, or has already become a convert. After Niall Campbell, who is unmarried, there come his cousins, Douglas Campbell, married to a daughter of the late John Laurence, of New York, and their ten-year-old boy, Lord George Campbell, and his son Ivar, attached to the British embassy at Washington, and then the entitled ass, Niall Campbell, the Roman Catholic branch of the family, namely, the Campbells of Lochan.

No less than forty-eight Scottish Kings, including Shakespeare's King Duncan and King Macbeth, four Irish Kings, and eleven Kings of Norway, lie buried on the Island of Iona, as well as all the old-time Lords of the Isles. Indeed, in the early days of the Christian era, and in the Middle Ages, the soil of Iona was regarded as so sacred, and buried there so high an honor, and so great a privilege, that the bodies of royal personages and of powerful nobles, of Vikings and mighty chieftains, were brought there for interment not only from all parts of Scotland and Ireland, but also across the North Sea, from the remotest portions of Scandinavia.

The cathedral dates from the twelfth century, while St. Oran's Chapel, of which but the bare walls remain, was built by Queen Margaret, sister of the Anglo-Saxon King Edgar Atheling. Attached to the cathedral was a library, so celebrated in its day that Pius V. after presenting it with many gifts, prepared to visit it, and was only prevented from doing so by his premature death.

The history of Iona goes back fifteen centuries, to the time when, in A. D. 563, Saint Columba, an Irish monk, driven out of Erin, sought refuge there with twelve companions. It is to his first thirty-two years before St. Augustine landed in Great Britain to convert its people. It is probable that Iona was already sacred for hundreds of years previously, to the rites of the Druids. For its ancient Gaelic name was "Inia non Drunach" (The Isle of the Druids). Saint Columba was confirmed in the possession of the Island by its then owner, Comal, King of the Northern Scots.

King Adrian, his successor and cousin, came to Iona to be crowned by St. Columba. The stone on which he sat on the occasion is the celebrated "Stone of Destiny," and was thereafter used at the coronation of the Kings of Scotland, at Dunstaffnage and at Scone, until carried off to London in 1296 by King Edward I. Since which time it has been preserved in Westminster Abbey, forming the seat of the coronation chair, or throne, on which every British sovereign since the time of Edward I. has been crowned. The fact that the stone should be of the same material as the rocks of the Island of Iona, clearly indicates the fallacy of the popular legend, according to which it was brought originally from the Holy Land, after serving as pillow to Jacob, when he slept, and saw in his dream angels ascending and descending a ladder that reached to heaven.

It was from Iona that St. Columba spread Christianity throughout the length and breadth of Scotland, and it is there that he died and was buried, predicting just before his demise that Iona would remain one of the most honored spots on the face of the earth; a prediction which has been fulfilled.

Countess Theresia von Meran, who has just died, at Graz, in Austria, at an advanced age, leaving a whole tribe of children and grandchildren, was the daughter-in-law of Archduke John and of his peasant-born wife, Anna Flochel, daughter of a village postmaster in the Tyrol.

The archduke, on arriving one fine day at the little village of Brandenberg, in his traveling carriage, found relays of horses, but no postilion. The postmaster's daughter, knowing that her father would incur punishment, if not dismissed, for his failure to provide a postilion to so important a personage as the brother of the then reigning Emperor of Austria, immediately decided to undertake the duty of the absent postilion, arrayed herself in the postboy's habiliments, mounted manfully on to the horse of the imperial postchaise and galloped off.

As she was a remarkably pretty girl, the archduke was soon attracted, first to the features and then to the figure of his postilion, and at the end of the relay, asked for an explanation. He was so much touched by her devotion to her father that he interested himself in her behalf, caused her to be educated in a neighboring convent, and two years later married her morganatically, securing for her from his brother the title of Baroness Brandenberg.

Subsequently his nephew, the present Emperor, advanced her to the rank of Countess von Meran, the title passing to her son, Francis, husband of the old woman whose death has just taken place.

Theresia, Countess of Meran, was by birth a Countess of Lamberg, and, like her children and grandchildren, was treated by the imperial family as an honored and valued relative. Her eldest son, the present chief of the family, Count John von Meran, is a member of the Austrian House of Lords, and of the Privy Council, as well as a Knight of the Order of the

Years of Suffering

Catarrh and Blood Disease—Doctors Failed to Cure.

Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrh and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person, and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrh."

Get it to-day in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs—Advertisement.

Golden Pleece—an order restricted to members of the reigning family, and to a very limited number of the greatest nobles of the empire.

(Copyright, 1913, by the Brantwood Company.)

Victoria, Va., October 2.—A wedding of great interest was solemnized at the Baptist Church at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when Miss Grace Gregory Buchanan became the bride of James Eugene Filppo. The church was beautifully decorated. Rev. S. S. Robinson was the officiating minister. Mrs. John Paul Whitehead, with Mrs. E. L. Kendig accompanying at the organ, sang "Longing for You, Sweetheart," immediately after which the wedding party entered in the following order: W. M. Scott with Miss Annie Breckenridge; Ellis Filppo with Miss Annie Cobb; Charlie Elmo with Miss Marion Filppo; Ernest Dupreast with Miss Mary Buchanan; Bernard Wilson with Miss Elizabeth Buchanan.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her away. The groom's best man was his brother, Floyd Filppo, and little Miss Annie Filppo acted as ring bearer.